

September 10 2010

Ty Bennett is a man young in years but old in learned lessons and acquired wisdom. We spoke early on to determine if he would be a good fit for our key note speaker at the "4th annual Utah Quad Chamber Conference". I wanted him to deliver a message of the "importance of leadership" in all businesses. As we spoke I could see he knew the subject well. We consequently scheduled him to be the key note speaker at our annual chamber event.

Ty delivered the subject matter spot on and with humor that grabbed and held the attention of our conference attendees for 2010. Many compliments were made to our office after the event about the conference and the delivery and content of Ty's presentation.

We were very pleased, and know that our desire to impart the value and importance of leadership in business to our membership was achieved fully.

Sincerely,

William E. Rappleye
